Now that we got all of that out of our way, let's begin.

Thank you first of all for investing in this product. I worked hard at discovering what I am about to share with you. Some of these things I'm already pinching myself for sharing, but I know these can help save some of you guys from some money problems.

Fast Teespring Cash

This simple little system of mine is going to get you up and running almost instantly. Attached to this WSO is a set of WSOs I've made about Teespring in the past. If I ever don't teach a thing in this WSO, I'll make sure I refer to my previous WSOs so you know where to look about whatever I'm skipping in this wso.

The TRUTH About Teespring

The simple truth about this site is that PEOPLE ARE SELLING SHIRTS EVERY DAY.

I am selling on it almost everyday. It isn't always a walk in the park, that's for sure, but you CAN make a living from Teespring alone. Countless people are earning thousands in a single week from just a few campaigns going on.

Most WSOs on Teespring Focus On Too Much

There are so many people who have spoken to me and have told me, "It's so confusing. I've read so many products and eBooks on Teespring but none are making any kind of sense to me."

You need to know that you only need 2 things:

- 1) A Quality Design
- 2) A Way To Promote Them

Throw away anything and everything you thought you knew about selling shirts on this site, and just focus on these two things. This is all you need. A quality shirt being promoted effectively through different platforms are all you need to succeed.

Let's begin making you some money on your next Teespring campaigns.....

Choosing A Niche

This doesn't have to be rocket science. But I'm tired of people giving away the most simple ideas..... I've heard of countless people talk about the same niches over and over again....

But I'm going to reveal to you a simple niche that is going to make you rapid money ALMOST ON COMMAND.

What niche is this?

CURRENT NEWS

Think about it: the shirt you design is only going to be available for about a good 10-20 days. People know that when they see a shirt that is popular at the moment and is only going to be available for the next few days, they'll be tempted to buy right away.

People also just want to be a part of something.

I'm pinching myself for sharing this, but I'm already getting my campaigns ready for this upcoming NBA FINALS that is going on.

In the next few weeks, this isn't going to be understood by all of you. But anyways, this NBA FINALS is the Golden State Warriors against the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Let's just say, I have already profited from a couple of shirts in this industry.

Sports Teams are a GOLDMINE

Anything CURRENT and huge at the moment is going to be massive on Teespring. Creativity goes a long way.

READ THE NEWS

It's so simple really. Be updated with what's up at the moment. If a trend is going on, catch onto it. Head on over to several Facebook pages that talk about famous trends and jokes. If you're up to date, people will buy your shirt about that funny video that is going viral at the moment.

Take the "blue and black/white and gold" dress. Shirts were sold about it stating their side.... One shirt I found said: "It's Blue And Black" that's it. It sold pretty well considering it was barely even advertised.

Text Posts Are All You Need

Believe it or not, all you need is a couple of simple ideas using just text. With a simple color and maybe a nice design around it may work, but really, just a simple text post can still go a long way.

I made a shirt about the Warriors right after they finally made it to the finals (before the finals started)..... All It Said was "Warriors For The Win" and it had a "NBA FINALS" at the bottom.

It was very good for the current situation, but it could be perfect for anything really down the future. People WANT to buy memorabilia or anything that is going to help them remember their favorite team making it to the finals, or whatever type of championship the sports team is trying to get to.

Designing A Shirt

- Doing It Yourself

Like I explained above, every single shirt you sell does not need an elaborate design. A couple graphics here and there, and you're all set. Sometimes, all you need is a simple text post with a good font and color.

- Outsourcing

Outsourcing is almost always the way most of you may want to go because of time restraints.

Heading to Fiverr is always my favorite recommendation because some designers on there genuinely love their work, have strong ideas, and can provide wonderful support for just $5. I won't be providing any recommendations only because of some sellers I have recommended to some people in my WSOs telling me that some of their clients are expecting "free" or "additional" service because I was the one who lead the client to them.

People on Fiverr are only earning five dollars, and only $4 actually goes to them. Keep that in mind. They are microworkers; they aren't machines that are there for your every command. Be nice to people on Fiverr.

Finding somebody is really easy. Just a quick search will help you find tons of people ready to design your next Teespring shirt.

Tip: Head on over to the Fiverr sellers who have very few reviews and are still somewhat new. They may be able to assist you with quicker service, faster response times and support, and also give you a better design since they aren't bottled up with tons of other people to serve. Just my two cents.

How To Create A Successful and Effective Campaign Listing

The shirt IS the most important part, but there are other aspects that can help increase sales.

- Title

The title alone can increase sales. Make it short, fast, catchy, and make sure that the name of it is really focused on what the shirt is selling. Make sure that the name of the shirt is in the title. Saying words like "limited edition" can also help enhance its image.

- Description

The description should be very descriptive. It should just explain

I always tell people..... Head down to Teespring, check out their most successful campaigns, and just try to find out what they did with their description. Don't ever be afraid to find inspiration for the shirt design or even the niche you're going to target by looking at other successful shirts that have sold.

- Learn About Copywriting

It was once explained before by one of my favorite copywriters that learning how to write content that sells is going to make you money on every medium possible.

Learning copywriting and the secrets to persuading to buying your stuff can help you even if you won't become a product seller. Just because you're not creating your very own ebook in the internet marketing niche or you aren't a sales letter, you are CONSTANTLY in need of convincing people.

Let's take product reviews online. If you have a list of people in the IM niche, you want to send them email sequences in your auto responder to convince them to check out products that you like. When you write product reviews, you'll know how to convince people to buy whatever it is you're selling in your product review.

EDUCATE YOURSELF ON AS MUCH COPYWRITING CONTENT AS POSSIBLE.

And you'll be using everywhere online, including your

TEESPRING campaigns.

- Providing Options For Men And Women

ALWAYS make sure that you create multiple versions of a shirt. If it's just a single shirt without additional sizes and types for men AND women, then you can lose out on a ton of extra sales. Some people may buy multiple versions for them and their partner. If you target both genders, you'll be making more money. Of course, it's different when the target demographic is clearly a man or clearly a woman, but that's not always the case.

Don't be afraid to make sure that there are tanks, hoodies, and other styles for the design of the shirt. Milk the entire process. Make the cash. Give them no reason to ignore the offer. Give it all to them. It's very simple. Make it easy for them to decide and make the choice to buy whatever it is that you're selling.

Promoting Your Campaign To As Many People As Possible

This is oftentimes the hardest part of the process. Getting your shirts in front of as many people as possible is not easy.

Going via Facebook ads is a great idea, do not get me wrong. In fact, when you have a few successful campaigns already, don't be afraid to reinvest that money for more profits.

If you have a shirt that is in a niche that is currently trending, going for Facebook ads is the way to go no doubt.

However, if you don't have a huge budget, that may not always be the best decision.

This is why I always try to look out for newer ideas that are cheap, affordable, and possibly free. I am focusing on free right now since I know budgets are always tight for some of you.

These techniques ALL work. Do not discount them. They are tried, true, and proven.

Some I discovered on my own and some are taught by a friend of mine with my own tweaks along the way.

Can you believe it? We haven't even started talking about how to promote or anything, and I have already shared more than enough techniques. The truth about Teespring is that creativity is the only thing some people are forgetting. Some promoters may have the ideas and the shirts with quality designs, but without basic creativity on promotion or finding something in a niche that could sell, you could be missing out on unique opportunities that can make you a couple thousand in a few days from every campaign.

1) Technique #1 - Famous Viral Videos

This technique is the one I'm showing you because it is my go-to idea for something that is currently going viral. If the niche your shirt is currently in is actually within the news and viral area, then this is going to help you out.

It all begins by having your shirt published.....

Once that has been covered..... Your next goal is to find a famous fan page that focuses primarily on Facebook fan pages.

(I have taught this technique before, but I'm giving it an added twist. You can learn more about this in my previous WSO "Teespring Cash Generator.)

You can find them by searching through Facebook itself or even via Google search. Phrases like, "Facebook Funny Videos" is a great idea. Anything similar should help you yield tons of pages.

Make sure the Facebook fan page has thousands and thousands of fans. If they have 1 million fans or more, it may be hard for them to be contacted, but you should still ask if they're interested.

After you find one, send them a personal message asking them the following: "I'm a shirt designer and I just created a shirt design on Teespring. Would you be interested if we partnered on a deal? I design the shirt, you share it on your page, and we split the profits 60/40! I designed the shirt based off of a popular viral meme at the moment. Let me know if you're interested."

Something along the lines of all that is a good way to get on the right track with them. Keep your opening email very short. I also would advise using the following email: "Have you guys ever monetized this Facebook page? I'm selling a shirt for the next 15 days that I think your readers would love. You could keep a piece of the profits. Interested?"

That email before has helped set me up for better conversation down the road. A lot of people on Facebook with funny videos as their main topic are very easy to speak with mainly because they're literally watching funny videos all day long. Some are also very young and tech savvy, so sometimes they haven't even tried to monetize yet.

Things to Keep In Mind On Telling Them:

As you have a conversation with them, I would advise that you make sure you let them know about the below:

- Decide on a percentage they will get. I once started off with 60/40 with one guy, and I moved it to 50/50 for the next ones we did together.
- Let them know about the payment. Tell them the money is going to arrive within a few days after the campaign has reached the end. Ask for their paypal account and keep it handy.
- Build trust with them along the way. Have a contract handy if you would like to. Just a single Google search will help you find one that he may sign.
- Tell them about how you WILL provide everything and do all the work, provided that all they do is promote it once or twice with them.
- PLEASE just take the time to treat these people as people. Some can become good friends with yours. As much as this is a business, you never know how a single partnership can turn into something bigger in the future.

If at any point you ask multiple people and you only have one shirt and SEVERAL of them are interested, just set another campaign up for that specific Facebook fan page each.

Only work with one single fan page for each shirt you have just so that you can split the profits evenly.

2) Technique #2 - Building Your Own Fan Page (Long Term)

Believe it or not, the "funny" niche is very crowded, but there is always room for more to grow in this specific niche because funny videos are always being posted. Why is this niche worth staying in? Simply because people love everything and anything funny. You could get a single video to go viral almost immediately if you know what you're doing.

Here's what I recommend you do: start building your very own secret fan page, but to get instant success and get FAST TEESPRING CASH, you need to start with the other techniques. Use this as a building block for the future. Within 2-3 months of consistent hard work, you may have thousands of people already following you and they may be ready for you to promote to them.

I'll give you a simple formula you could follow:

I HIGHLY recommend setting it up in the "funny videos" "viral" type of industry because it's such a wide community. These techniques could be used for any niche, but I only and always recommend Facebook fan pages to be in the funny department simply because there is a WIDE array of videos you could use to update and also have better chances of a post going viral.

- Finding Videos To Post

Find videos on Vine.

Countless funny videos on Vine are being shared, and the best part is that a lot of them have not yet reached the Facebook atmosphere yet, so you have a great shot at the videos going viral. Download the app to your phone or just visit the Vine website.

Grab that video, upload it onto your Facebook page, and you're set. Consistency is key. If something is funny, people will see it.

Participate in groups that share these types of videos and tell them about your fan page. With just a couple of people to check it out, you'll be closer to building your fan base. Just a few shares can get you tons of people checking your site out.

After awhile, you'll be selling shirts once or every other week. Just don't promote too much. Give yourself about 2-3 months of growing a single channel, and you'll be shocked at your fan base grows and how you'll have thousands of people just waiting to buy the suits you make. As long as the shirts are funny or relevant to a video that has recently gone viral people are going to love it.

Now let's move on to the next technique:

3) Technique #3 - Tumblr (Long term)

For this last technique, I'm just going to touch base on it because it's not an extremely tough thing to try out.

Again, Tumblr is very much like a Facebook fan page. However, on tumblr, there are so many people who rely on strictly visuals.

People head onto this site for the sake of seeing something that is beautiful.

Creating a tumblr account is very easy.

Again, I highly recommend going after the funny videos niche.

(You're probably scared that there will be competition regards this industry and how all of you guys I'm recommending should sell shirts in this niche. But really, there is more than enough to go around for everyone in this specific industry.)

After you have created your very own videos, your next goal is to make a couple of posts sharing funny videos you have found online. Again, use Vine as your platform. You can share them on tumblr EASILY. It's very self explanatory.

Continue posting until you reach 100+ followers which won't take any longer than couple few weeks.

I highly recommend looking for other FUNNY blogs you can find, and make it a goal to follow 100 a day. They might put a limit. With the new rules they're always implementing, they could make it a lower number or a higher one, so it depends on when you decide to join.

On Tumblr, people use it to find things they enjoy.

If you have a SUPER FUNNY SHIRT that will have people literally laughing out loud, then you can EASILY have people sharing it. Some shirts I've made are trill going around RIGHT NOW on tumblr. It's being shared every single day.

The reblog button is very powerful. When people reblog a shirt you decide to share (with the link to the campaign in the description of course) their followers will see the shirt. The reblog button instantly shares your stuff to their followers, so the better the shirt and the more hilarious, the more people will see it.

One of my shirts has been reopened to be sold again multiple times for sales because people continue to buy it despite it being originally sold like 3 months ago.

On tumblr, traffic just continues and grows over and over again. Making a post tumblr viral is not easy, but a funny shirt that is in the moment and really in a niche that is popular right now will get you a ton of attention.

There's not much to say about tumblr except that it's super easy to use when compared to other social networking sites in terms of things going viral. Follow as much people as you want on the blog. Most will eventually follow you back.

Selling teespring shirts is easy. You just need to know what you're doing.

The above advice are things I HAVE DONE. They all work. They all can come together as well. The money to be made in this specific niche alone can be huge. Of course, the goal is to work hard. These ideas are not going to work overnight. You need to work hard to make these techniques work effectively.

If you have trouble along the way or you have additional questions, then definitely send me an email to joelswohelpdesk@gmail.com

Now go out there and get started. Let's see those campaigns tip!!

Teespring is all about momentum. Some campaigns are going to go faster and sell more than others, but with the ideas above, you can be sure that you'll be setting up campaigns that are going to sell. Now get out there and start.
